

It's Good to Be Back Together Again

The personality of God is a concept underlying the whole fabric of the Christian faith... The depersonalization of the Almighty is the mortal error that underlies the extensive confusion and impotence which are the bane of so much modern religious thought. True religion demands a personal God at the center; and anything else is fatal. William F. Buckley, in NATIONAL REVIEW magazine, noted that the concept of an impersonal God robs religion of its three "R's," these being revelation, regeneration, and responsibility.

If God is not personal, there can be no such thing as revelation; for, if there is no speaker, nothing has been spoken.

Likewise, there could be no such thing as regeneration, because no one can be the son of some natural law, such as the law of osmosis or the law of gravitation.

Responsibility also derives from the fact that God is a person; and, if God is not a person, then feeble, fallible man must be hailed as the highest thing in heaven and upon earth; and it is precisely that delusion which is the source of so much human sorrow.

If God is not a person who will hold people accountable and bring them to judgment, then it is intellectually impossible to view man as responsible, ultimately, to anything except himself; and that, it should be noted, is exactly the proposition which in the form of a godless humanism, is bidding for allegiance of people's minds today. Therefore, what a refreshment of the soul flows from the opening words of Hebrews with their bold revelation of a God who speaks, and even what is more, a God who speaks to man!

Gene Bohannon

Here is a picture of my dad and mom. My dad was born on Christmas Day in 1931. He passed away on July 20, 2022. He lived an extraordinary life and was the best Christian example a family and friends could have ever asked for. He is survived by his six children, five daughters and one son.

And too many grandchildren and great grandchildren to count. We know that he is happy now that he has been reunited with our mom. He was laid to rest on Wednesday, July 27th at Oakwood Memorial in Chatsworth Ca. In lieu of flowers, please take yourself and a loved one out for a hotdog, french fries and a Coke. He would've preferred that.

~Miles Bohannon~
